UNESCO's vision of teachers

Reimagining our futures together: a new social contract for education (2021)

- A new social contract for education:
 - ✓ reiterating that education is a public good
 - ✓ the right to education should be broadened so that everyone everywhere has a right to lifelong learning
- Recognition of the transformative work of teachers and:
 - ✓ The teaching profession to be recast as a collaborative endeavour
 - ✓ Teachers seen as reflective practitioners and knowledge producers who contribute to educational research

Teacher training and professional development are crucial to develop teachers' professional autonomy

Global Teacher Campus

← Coordinated action to transform education. What's in it for teacher representatives?

This brief presents what teacher representatives gain through coordinated action. The involvement of teacher representative bodies in broader policy dialogue takes place through multi-stakeholder coordination mechanisms, including local education groups (or the equivalent). Here, they can bring the attention of decision makers and other partners to issues and practices for ensuring coherence in the implementation of education policy, including investments needed in teacher preparation, professional development, raising teaching standards and improving teacher well-being.

← Empowering students for just societies: a handbook for primary school teachers

The aim of this guide is to provide teachers with a selection of relevant and accessible in-classroom and out-of-classroom educational resources (summaries of short activities, lessons, units) that aim to instil the principles of the rule of law among primary school students.

It can also be used by professionals working in non-formal education or engaging with young people, for example, in sports associations, community organizations, social work and the justice sector.

A guide for secondary school teachers is available here.
